1. Chapter I – Introduction:

1.1 – Project Title:

The Project title is Bahria Town Art Center, the Art center focuses on preserving works of art i.e Architecture, Painting, Sculpturing, Dance, Performing, and Music & poetry.

1.2 – Project Introduction:

“We are united with life that is nature. Man can no longer live his life for himself alone
“Albert Schweitzer

Through Hundreds of years on this earth, man has taken what Mother Nature has provided for him. With increasing demand for technological development and its need for one’s own personal fortune, man has neglected the environment, and abused many of its recourses. Why are we determined on replacing Plants, trees, mud , stone, with Jungles of concrete and Glass. No doubt architecture is an important part of us, but so is nature. We should work towards harmonizing both architecture and nature.

Given all the concern is about the environment, my design will be dedicated towards producing organic architecture.

It is difficult to say where an architectural experience begins and ends. It is even difficult to define an architectural experience. Usually these experiences are described as the beginning of a day or the arrival to a place. But, the experience itself has its beginning in many places, all of which are determined by many things, most importantly, the individual. If I am to describe an experience to someone, I decide where that experience begins and ends. But someone else may choose an entirely different place for that experience to begin and end for him or herself. The importance of this is simply that all experiences are a result of perceptions within a context. This context influences the individual
